

7%

Of Children In Care Gain Entry To University

A Figure That Has Not Improved Since 2006

Having completed university, AM was uncertain about her career direction or her next step in life.

AM's challenges before working with her mentor included low mood, fear, negative family situations, low motivation which impacted her work ethic and lack of clarity of purpose and direction.

She was referred to receive mentoring support however due to the complexities of her challenges she was unable to engage at first. After requesting timeout, AM got in touch with us again to begin engaging. According to AM, "I chose to participate because of the care and acceptance I was

AM has expressed that she has now gained clarity regarding her future career aspirations, something that had eluded her for a while. She has made significant changes in her personal life; she now views challenges through different lenses – the things she can control and the things she cannot control.

AM expressed that she was empowered to step outside of her comfort zone. She enrolled onto a course at the BIG House Theatre Company and is now in part-time employment at Ivesta, Brent Cross.

"I have gained invaluable skills (such as living purposefully) that I will take with me for life. I will apply these to my personal and corporate life. The impending doom of a job I had subjected myself to has been erased and I intend to keep it that way. Mentoring has enabled me to approach career and future goals in a holistic way and that has been life changing."